

Frowd et al. Best Practice Forensic Procedures for Holistic Facial Composite Construction

The recommended cognitive interview, face construction and enhancement procedures for holistic composite systems are likely to be shaped by research subsequent to publication of this article. As such, we intend to provide updates using this online research resource, including details of research papers that are mentioned in this article but have yet to be accepted for publication.